Biological Parents

MY STORY, MY JOURNEY

- In 2002 my husband and I decided to become foster parents
- In 2005 we had our first child that we would soon adopt, her and her brother in 2006.
- We were told “our foster children would have limited learning”
- We were told “our children couldn’t attend early intervention programs because of our families income”
- My children struggled in school
- My family needed support

10 PRINCIPLES OF HIGH FIDELITY WRAPAROUND PROCESS

Voice & Choice

- Being apart of HFW I learned that I had a voice (opinion that matters)
- Choice- I could chose not to go with the recommendation regarding behavioral health or education

Team-Based

- I have a group of people supporting my plan (to find a support for my son)
- Family
- School
- Mental Health

10 PRINCIPLES OF HIGH FIDELITY WRAPAROUND PROCESS

Natural Supports

- Support can come from anyone and everyone

Collaboration

- We keep everyone on our team up to date on the progress of my son as we worked together

10 PRINCIPLES OF HIGH FIDELITY WRAPAROUND PROCESS

Community Based

- Its great to have familiar faces help support you

Culturally Competence

- HFW help us understand our culture surrounding education and supported us learning new ways to inspire my son to enjoy learning

10 PRINCIPLES OF HIGH FIDELITY WRAPAROUND PROCESS

Individualized

- My plan was written for my family. Needs that my son or any other family needs

Strength Based

- We started with things that my son did well and built on ways we could encourage him to try new things

10 PRINCIPLES OF HIGH FIDELITY WRAPAROUND PROCESS

Persistence

- We would meet as many times as we had to find a solution to help my son get his education

Outcome based

- Every time we met we had a goal
